

TEAM SUPPORTERS WILL GO BY BUSES TO VARSITY GAME

Room for 200 Made Available Under Scheme

"Approximately 200 students both men and women, will be able to go to Toronto by bus for the McGill-Varsity football match on November 10," announced the executive of the Red and White Society. This game will be the first one to be played between Canada's two largest universities since the beginning of the war.

TICKETS AT UNION

Elizabeth Edwards, chairman of Team 4, has announced that tickets will be on sale today and tomorrow from 12 o'clock until 3 o'clock in Mr. Fletcher's office in the Union. Students who have signed for tickets are asked to call for them immediately, as those remaining unsold by Saturday will be sold to those who did not sign the lists.

Reduced Prices

The committee has announced that, due to the very large number desiring to go to Toronto for the game, it has been possible to reduce the fare from $12.75 to $11.00.

Those going to Toronto are reminded that the Society has made no arrangements for accommodations in Toronto for Saturday night. It is therefore suggested that the students try to make reservations immediately if they have not already done so.

Band To Cheer Leaders Go Along
The committee further revealed that the band and several cheerleaders will accompany the students.

Tickets for the game itself will shortly be on sale at the Athletics office in the Gym.

The buses will leave from the McGill campus on Friday evening and will reach Varsity early Saturday morning. On the return trip the buses will leave from Hart House on Sunday morning so as to arrive in Montreal early Sunday evening. Exact times to be published later.

WOMEN'S DEBATING SOCIETY

The Women's Debating Society will hold its first meeting today, October 31st, at 5 o'clock in Room 2 of R.V.C.

There will be several intercollegiate and I.U.D.L. debates throughout the year in which the women students may participate.

At today's meeting a forum discussion on some current topic will be held. Why not come and give your views? The discussion will be informal, and it is a good opportunity to meet other girls. These forum discussions will be held throughout the year. If sufficient interest is shown, lectures on public-speaking will be arranged.

Graduates Interested In Veteran Welfare

A tremendous interest in the welfare of veterans in Canadian universities on the part of graduates, was reported here yesterday by T. H. Matthews, McGill registrar who has returned from Winnipeg where he was the official representative of McGill at the installation of Dr. A. W. Truman as president of the University of Manitoba and where he addressed a meeting of the Winnipeg branch of the Graduates' Society.

Graduates at the meeting wanted to know how the veterans were being handled at the university, as well as the status of the football team, a topic of perennial interest to graduates. The registrar told how McGill gave priority to veterans and attempted in every way to facilitate their rehabilitation training.

Course in Television Established in N.Y.

Vancouver Oct. 28 — (CUP) — Something new was added to the educational world when the College of the City of New York established an instructor's seat in Television this semester. CBS video director Rudolf Bretz will inaugurate the study at the college's Institute of Film Techniques.

Majority Favors Distinctive Flag For Dominion

Campus Poll Returns Show Students Desire Maple Leaf Symbol

Sackville, N.B., Oct. 30. — (CUP) — In a campus poll held at Mount Allison University, students were asked:

"Do you think Canada should have a distinctive flag of its own? If so, what design would you suggest?"

The majority of interviewed students expressed themselves in favor of a distinctive Canadian flag. Twenty-nine per cent. vetoed the idea, feeling that it would be another step in breaking our ties with Great Britain. It was felt also that it would be too nationalistic an idea now when we should be thinking of internationalism.

Five per cent. of those answering either felt that the flag question should be left alone, or thought that no distinctive flag should be adopted until Canada could stand on her own feet as a nation.

The majority however — sixty-six per cent. — were decidedly in favor of a Canadian flag. They felt that it should have nothing reminiscent of the flags of other nations, but should be definitely Canadian. The beaver was one suggestion; but most of those with definite ideas thought that the maple leaf should be the symbol. Two people wanted

Clement Attlee, President Truman Hail World Youth Conference

The important part that young people must play in building peace was emphasized to Monday's inaugural meeting of the World Youth Conference in London through messages from Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee and President Harry S. Truman.

The formal sessions of the conference, at which there are delegates from sixty-three nations, began yesterday.

It is "immensely important and encouraging" that the youth of so many nations should meet at this time to discuss their common problems and purposes in the establishment of lasting peace, the President said. "The world into which you were born is not a happy one," he continued, "but the victory of the United Nations has won for us the opportunity to create the kind of world in which you and your children can live in peace."

"What we have won is more than opportunity. We have, it seems to me, a solemn responsibility to build that kind of world. The generation that has suffered and failed to avert two World Wars can only lay the foundation for a better way of life. It is for us to hand on to you the bitter lessons we have learned. It is for you to build on that experience, to combine the creative and adventurous spirits of youth with the understanding and patience and tolerance and faith that the building of peace demands."

Aid Work Volunteers Will Meet Thursday

A meeting of all girls who signed up for Home Nursing, Hospital Aides and Canteen will be held on Thursday, November 1, between 1 and 2 p.m. in the Women's Union at R.V.C.

Any other girls who would be willing to contribute some of their time to hospital work are welcome to attend the meeting also. The hours when help is needed most are as follows: Morning, 8-10; Noon, 11-1; Evening, 4-6.

So far, only 65 per cent. of the total objective has been reached. It is hoped the response will be to the satisfaction of the hospital. The need for volunteers, especially for Aide work, is great.

Dance Will Follow Game on Nov. 10

'Stag or Drag' Event; Executive Hoping For Large Turnout at Gym

A football dance to follow the game between McGill and Queen's will take place on Saturday, Nov. 3 at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium at 5 p.m.

Music for the occasion will be supplied by Don Cameron and his orchestra. The policy for this affair is "Stag or Drag," and the price of admission is 25c per person.

These after-the-game dances were held last year, though there was no inter-collegiate till at that time. Students intending to come "stag" instead of "drag" can be comforted by the knowledge that there is usually plenty of the opposite sex in attendance at these dances, the dance executive stated.

A large turnout of men and women from Queen's is expected at the event. The Executive of Group 3 of the Red and White society is in hopes a similarly great number of McGill students will be on hand to compare favorably with the Queen's turnout.

MONTREAL NEUROLOGICAL SOCIETY

The next regular meeting of the Montreal Neurological Society will be held in the Lecture Amphitheatre of the Montreal Neurological Institute on Wednesday, Oct. 31, 1945 at 5 p.m.

This will be a memorial meeting in honour of the late Prof. Pio del Rio-Hortega.

Speakers:
Dr. Wilder Penfield.
Dr. Pierre Masson.
Dr. Miguel Prados.

Here We Go Again...

McGill students invade the centre of Peel and Ste. Catherine Sts. to carry on the traditional fraternity initiations. One of the "pledges" is showing off by sporting the seven-foot fishing pole and doing his best to lure a goldfish out of the bottle amid rantings of McGill onlookers.

'Co-weds' Sponsor Hallowe'en Dance 1st Dawson Dance

Six Women Students, Saint Johns Council Invited to Lounge

The first dance to be held at Dawson is scheduled for this Friday evening, Nov. 2. On this date the married couples' club, The Co-Weds will stage a house warming party in their recently renovated lounge "The Co-Wed's Corner" in Building No. 21. The 36 resident couples who form the group have invited the Faculty, the Dawson Student Council, and the college's six coeds to attend.

As no orchestra was obtainable for the evening the dancing will be recordings with the intermissions devoted to party-games, refreshments, and getting acquainted.

Mrs. Pauline Evers, the president of the "Co-Weds", voiced her regret that, due to lack of accommodations, more invitations cannot be extended. She stated, however, that the club intends to inaugurate Sunday evening get-togethers in "The Corner."

It will also invite "lone-wolf" students so that they can enjoy the Billiard tables and other facilities which the lounge offers, as well as get a slant on how the other half of the student body and their better halves live.

Argentine Situation Is Debating Theme

Kingston, Oct. 30. — (CUP) — The Queen's Debating Union has made tentative plans for the coming season. Their program will include noon-hour debates, instruction in public speaking, and an adjudicated competition to decide the champion debating team of the university.

The first session is being held today. The topic is: "Resolved: The United Nations should interfere in Argentina in the interests of Democracy."

Suggestions from club members are to be the source of topics to be decided upon for further debates.

OFFICE SPACE REQUIRED

McGill Veterans' Society is in dire need of some sort of office for the purpose of setting up a housing registry. Until some sort of office is obtained our task of making residences available for Veterans will be extremely difficult.

The society needs an office in the vicinity of the Campus to carry out its activities. Anyone knowing of the whereabouts of such an available space please phone Peter Skelton, We. 1415 as soon as possible.

Beatty Hall Residents To Celebrate Tonight

Beatty Hall tonight, October 31st, will be the setting for an informal Hallowe'en House Dance being held by the Resident Council under the patronage of Prof. R. D. MacLennan. For this first dance at Beatty Hall the common room and dining-room are being decorated in orange and black with weird Hallowe'en characters.

Special contests in old-fashioned Hallowe'en games, will be featured with the guests both male and female being the star performers. Recorded music will be played for the student dances in the dining-room from nine until one.

Protest Move to Deport Japanese Of Canadian Birth

SCM Meeting Urges Return of Full Rights In Letter to King

A protest against the recent decision of the Government of Canada to deport some 10,000 Japanese Canadians from this country was unanimously registered at an "Open House" meeting of the McGill Student Christian Movement last Sunday.

This protest was in agreement with similar moves made by the Universities of Toronto and Manitoba, and it was decided to send to Prime Minister Mackenzie King the following letter:

"Dear Sir:

"For six long years Canada has waged war, losing thousands of lives in order to preserve democratic rights for men. This struggle has been over less than two months, yet is our government following the principles for which Canadians fought?"

"We have watched with great concern the course our government is following with regard to the Japanese Canadian question. This issue has not been handled in a democratic manner, but, as a result of economic and racial prejudice, the influence of atrocity stories, and capitalization on war hysteria, has become a political football."

"These people are not citizens of Japan, but Canadians by birth and desire. We, the members of the Student Christian Movement of McGill University, urgently beg our government to take the following action at the earliest possible opportunity.

"(1) To delay the deportation of over 10,000 people of Japanese origin to Japan, and allow them an opportunity to change their decision. Many of those who signed for expatriation did so under great psychological pressure and misunderstanding.

"(2) To abolish (as has already been done in the United States) all restrictions imposed on Japanese Canadians during the war."

"(3) To reinstate all loyal Japanese Canadians as full citizens of Canada."

MOCK PARLIAMENT IS PROPOSED BY DEBATING UNION

Will Debate Against American Universities

It was decided at a meeting of the Debating Union held last night to send a team on November 16 to the University of Vermont to debate on the following resolution: "Resolved, that the foreign policy of the United States be directed toward the establishment of free trade among the nations of the world."

McGill is to have the choice of either the negative or affirmative side. The time and place of the eliminations for this event will be announced tomorrow in The Daily. Similarly, the R.V.C.ites will have an opportunity to display their talents when the Women's Debating Society go into action against the team at the Women's College of Middlebury. The tryouts for this will be held soon.

Another coming attraction is the debate to be held here November 26 between the University of Toronto team and our Debating Union team of J. W. MacDonald, John Rowe, Winston Mahabir and George Hanna.

Dawson Cut Off From All News as 'Daily' Held Up

"Customary Reading" Missed at Lunchtime; Radio Is Substitute

By BERNARD COOPER.

The most popular newspaper on the Dawson College Campus failed to arrive yesterday, and, as a result, Dawson students were almost entirely cut off from news of the outside world. For some strange and unexplained reason, the "McGill Daily" failed to arrive at Dawson College and the students finishing 10.00 a.m. lectures were deprived of their customary reading matter to pass the time while standing in line for lunch.

The Dawson Daily staff was flooded with frantic demands of "Where's the Daily?" Unable to give a satisfactory answer, the staff members were obliged to answer "I suppose it wasn't mailed."

Confident that they would receive their customary "Dailies" today, Dawson's valiants bravely accepted the prospect of doing without their "Daily" for a day and resorted to the radio to furnish news of the broad world surrounding the City of St. Johns, Quebec.

(The Daily investigated the situation when news of it reached the McGill office at 1 p.m. It was found that copies had gone out on the train as usual but the truck scheduled to pick them up to transfer them to Dawson College failed to do so.)

Political Clubs to Send Representatives If Council Approves

"A model parliament run in an orderly, interesting manner is a great benefit to the student body at this important stage of world history in that it would stimulate discussion of pertinent problems from all angles," stated president Isadore Rosenfeld at an organizational meeting of the Debating Union held last night in the Union Ballroom at 8 p.m.

The main part of the meeting was devoted to discussing the formation of a model parliament for McGill students.

The motion was passed that a model parliament be formed with a member of the faculty acting as the speaker during the first stages of its organization. The various political clubs of the campus, of which there are two at present, would help supply the members for the parliament. A committee formed by four members from each party would present the topics for discussion. The method of voting within the parliament was left to the executive of the Debating Union.

It was understood, however, that the project was still awaiting the approval of the Students' Executive Council.

A discussion on interfaculty debating followed. It was desired to have all faculties enter debating teams in the competition for the interfaculty debating cup.

J. W. MacDonald was elected representative of the Arts and Science faculty for organizing a debating team in his faculty. An effort is being made to organize debating teams within the other faculties also.

Needing a publicity committee, the Debating Union elected Conrad Shatner, Jim Fullerton and Alexander MacKenzie to fill that position.

In conclusion the club announced that the Bovey shield contest is to be held in the first week in November. It is limited to undergraduates attending college for the first time.

Dawson Student Keeps Original Hallowe'en

One of the Dawson students was apparently celebrating yesterday afternoon in anticipation of the witches and goblins which are scheduled to come out tonight. The individual in question was performing hand springs, headstands and similar calisthenics on the lawn behind the theatre. Not content with this form of amusement, our enthusiastic entertainer the dining hall and obeyed the post saying "Sign your name to Victory" by signing his name on said poster.

In addition to this questionable form of entertainment, other students are contemplating a celebration in St. Johns tonight. Though this celebration will not be one with costumed couples, bobbing for apples, and such, it will be a typically Dawson celebration by those who wish to "paint the town red."

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1945
Vol. XXXV, No. 22

(Ed. Notes The following two editorials appeared in The Daily 25 years ago today. We publish the first of these with an eye to the McGill-Queen's Football Game next Saturday, and with the hope that our team, cheerleaders and band will again "live up to their name", and continue the great traditions of yesterday. The second editorial, we feel, is as timely today as it was 25 years ago.)

The Rooters' Club

The "Thundering Thousand indeed lived up to their name in the game against Queens last Saturday. The performance was one truly worthy of McGill, and reflects great credit on its organizers as well as those who took part in it. Especially do we wish to mention the band. This is the best band organized at McGill for some time, and it has not a little to do with stirring up the enthusiasm of the rooters. We trust that all the men who turned out at the last game will be on hand at all practices this week, in order to get the rooters well versed in the songs for the Varsity game. As for the rooters themselves, well we know they will come out, when they realize how important is their support to the playing of the team.

Average College Intelligence

The success which we, as individuals, derive from our College Course is largely dependent on ourselves. One of our Professors a short time ago expressed the opinion that the average intelligence of the University man is on a higher plane than that possessed by the average man in the street, and that the man who works his way up to and into the University has attained a mental stage higher than that possessed by those who stop short of University requirements.

It would indeed be an error on our part were we to assume that all college men are above the average everyday man in ability. But the college man possesses the advantage, in that he is situated in a position where he can, by application to duty, raise himself to this higher plane.

Many students, particularly those who have recently entered the University Halls, are so overwhelmed by the magnitude of their toils and by the strangeness of their surroundings that they at once classify themselves as very far below the average man in intelligence. To some this results in increased application to the task in hand with the eventual successful termination of their courses, while to others it results in despair and an early failure.

It is necessary that everyone should assiduously devote himself to his studies but not, however, to that degree where everything else is sacrificed. Every college man should endeavor to connect himself with some college activity such as Athletics, the Literary Society, the College newspaper, or what not. In this way, and in this alone, will he derive the maximum benefit from his college course. He will thus come in contact with men in the same position as himself. There is a saying that "Misery loves company." Perhaps it is applicable in this case. Be that as it may, he will nevertheless benefit from the meeting with his fellow collegians and thus will receive a broader perspective and a greater degree of intelligence.

Every student should remember that his success at the University is measured not only in terms of intellectual facts acquired but also by the degree to which he devotes his energies to the lighter yet very important parts of College life.

LIT CRIT

"Adscititious Adumbration"

Conchubor Phelps

Time/Space Transition

Torn from time's trembling womb
Pulling I came;
Drowned in deep darkened tomb.
O oriflamme
Gelid and tense
'surrender sense.

Back into basic belch
Wailing I weep;
With one primordial squelch
Ever to sleep.
Crying distraught
'Naught comes to aught!"

My first reaction on reading Phelps' new book of verse "Adscititious Adumbration" (It's getting darker) (Dalrymple and Zweig $2.75); was "Gad! Conchubor has done it again!" And he certainly has. No one, writing as has this author, consistently through the twenties and thirties, gained and maintained the fine guerdon of perfection that he won and so jealously guarded.

As is the custom of this reviewer, one poem from the work is chosen for analysis.
The coldly mathematical "Time/Space Transition" is the forceful swansong of a fading flame — the nunc dimittis of a life crowned with successful endeavour.

The first three magnificently biographical lines may be divided into a couplet and a soul-searching statement of the negation of finality:

"Torn from time's trembling womb
Pulling I came"

shews with truly amazing originality how, at birth, Conchubor already was the composite of all his forbearing ancestors; and how, on the realization of his deep indebtedness to not only his mother but also his father, as his first worldly act, burst into tears of gratitude. This excellent augury of future perspicacity is fulfilled in this poem.

The next line;

"Drowned in dark deepened tomb"
is a prophecy of his ultimate decease. This has been fulfilled.

"O oriflamme
Gelid and tense
'surrender sense."

is Phelps' artistic credo. To the clear, unflickering flame of my superlibidosoulpsyche I remain frozen and immobile—surrendering all sense to it utterly."

Cunningly, the completely undetectable change in rhythm of the last verse prepares us for the soul baring expose of the man's philosophy. The first four lines

"Back into basic belch
Wailing I weep;
Ever to sleep"
With one primordial squelch

indicates his oft-avowed indebtedness to the University of Chicago, that which he called 'Maitre. In its bleak acceptance of Darwin's theories; its bold refutation of Bishop Fisher; its complete grasp of "Man and the Vertebrates"; it shews scientific integrity wrestling with and overcoming romantic idealism. Interestingly enough, all this is denied in the next two lines:

"Crying distraught
Naught comes to aught."

which so happily reflects the negative symbolism which was Beaudelaire. It is an echo of Conchubor's self-chosen epitaph:

"The best endeavours of our times,
For we are little use,
Is calling verse like this fine rhymes;
And Leda's swan—a goose."

"Dalrymple and Zweig $2.75.

Time and Tide

Youth

It has often been asked, "What is Youth?" The question springs to mind now, when there has been so much activity on the Campus, when there have been so many controversies advocating and criticising Clubs and Societies of diametrically opposite natures. All these manifestations of one phenomenon. Interest in world affairs and in college activities stem from one single source: the age-old feeling of being young, of being "Youth." It is the exhilarating feeling that this is the grandest, most glorious time of one's life. It is the knowledge of strength, and carelessness, of hope and promise, of intense awareness of the present and faith in the future.

Some have said that every age is the best, that man always considers himself at the peak of his life no matter how old he is. Yet throughout the ages all have agreed that Youth is THE time to be alive.

Youth alone has disagreed. The intense awareness that characterises it enhances the pleasant aspects of living, and at the same time accentuates, magnifies the difficulties. That is why youth is revolutionary and brave, often upset and spiritually tormented—that is also the essence of its enthusiasm.

Youth is a state of mind, an attitude of enthusiasm, strength, and awareness. It is one, yet divided into as many interests as there are ideas. Youth is the nearest to understanding life and the universe as a whole.

Youth, to say as much as possible in one sentence, knows it is alive. This is its mystery, its weakness, its strength.

Spinning atom
In a nebula of sungold,
Blood intoxicant of rushing motion,
A'bauble of Wind and cloud . . .

Shiver and gleam, pulse of a piston,
A laugh and a tear, a sputter of petrol,
A dance and a song, a ballet of wing-tip,
A cumulus mountain, a shimmering ice peak,
A spinning propeller, a silver of silver,
Sobbing a threnody,
Roaring a challenge
To earth sky and wind . . .

The dead were envious of us,
(The foolish dead)
But they did not hear the dirge at high noon . . .
Now

A primrose springs to the sun,
Marks the place,
Remembers the moment . . .

The Young Soprano Regina Resnick

Some have called 21-year-old Regina Resnick "Lucky," but the young American soprano, recently engaged for the Metropolitan Opera, has no room for that word in her vocabulary.

"It was just a matter of working hard and knowing that I didn't want to do anything else," she asserted, "I've had no other ambition since I was fifteen."

Nevertheless some will contend that the natural gifts of voice, temperament, and charm that Dame

REGINA RESNICK

Nature provided for this young prima donna are lucky adjuncts to tack on to hard work.

Two years out of college, and already Miss Resnick has been busy with concerts, radio broadcasts, two seasons of opera at the Teatro Nacional in Mexico City, her official operatic debut with the New York Opera Company, performances at the N.Y. City Center, the 1944 Award of the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air and now the Metropolitan Opera. This fast pace has meant a great deal of work, study, and effort.

Now that the shining goal of her ambition has been reached, Miss Resnick does not intend to rest on her laurels. There are new roles to learn — if she has any preference at all, it is for the roles where emotions count as much as singing — roles such as Santuzza, Lady Macbeth, and others.

Although singing is her main interest, Miss Resnick finds time for sports — her favourites are swimming and tennis. Next to Opera she loves the theatre and ballet. She likes to cook, and has only one superstition — rain. It has invariably poured every time she has sung an important engagement.

Her sole teacher was Rosalie Miller, and she graduated from Hunter College in New York in 1942, with a B.A. degree.

Miss Resnick's concert debut was made in 1942, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, and her operatic debut on December 5, 1942, with the New York Opera Company of New York, in the role of Lady Macbeth, in Verdi's opera of the same name.

Other activities have included several performances at the Theatre National in Mexico City, at the New York City Centre, and concert tours in the East and Midwest.

She was soloist with the Young America Symphony Orchestra, and sole woman singer to win an award in the Metropolitan Auditions of the Air of 1944.

LETTER FORUM

The Editor:

Dear Sir: — With reference to your article in last Friday's Daily stating that the McGill Student Veterans' Society had backed the Univet Enterprise: for the sake of accuracy we would like to point out that we had nothing to do with the organization of the Univet Enterprise—it is entirely the work of John Morton and Paul Le Brooy. John Morton was asked to speak at our recent meeting because it was felt that this was a subject of interest to all veterans; but it is not a project of this organization.

B. E. JACKSON,
Secretary,
McGill Student Veterans' Society.

To the Editor, McGill Daily,
Dear Sir: For those students who have been wondering why they have not been able to take out from the library that humorous classic "1066 and All That", an answer has been found. This hilarious parody on British history is reserved for students who are taking (of all things) History 5. No wonder those Artsmen have such dazed and bewildered expressions. I always knew that there had to be some explanation for them.

WE LIKE MUSIC.

Editor, McGill Daily,
Sir,—Thanks from a shaggy uncultured Scilenceman for your interesting page on the Music Faculty.

I suppose in other days when the world was less preoccupied with the material things of commerce and technology, such obscurity would have been unthinkable. Perhaps it behooves more of us to ponder the civilization we tend to where all education and knowledge has food, clothing and shelter as the single goal, and where the youth in their most formative years are permitted to exclude all things not directly bound to practicality.

— May I be the first (of many, I hope), to second the suggestion that a course in Music Appreciation be made available by the Faculty of Music for all interested students on the campus regardless of their other courses or their musical ability.

RUSS TAYLOR.

Dear Mr. Editor,—
May I compliment you on your fine gesture in dedicating Page 2 of Oct. 30th Daily to the Faculty of Music. THIS NOBLE INSTITUTION HAS TOO LONG BEEN TAKEN FOR GRANTED. But it in itself is partly to blame.

After having organized some musical evenings for certain clubs on the Campus, I proposed, last year, to students at the Conservatorium—at a meeting called for the purpose of forming a Musical

POLITICAL COMMENT

REVIEW OF THE RECENT POLITICAL ELECTIONS

The fact that the C.C.F. was not elected as the government in Manitoba, Nova Scotia or British Columbia provincial elections has caused jubilation in certain quarters.

What the press has failed to note is a remarkable increase in popular support for the CCF from Atlantic to Pacific. Distinct gains were made by the CCF in each of the three provinces. Let us review the facts:

MANITOBA: The Liberal, Conservative and Social Credit parties combined polled 51% of the popular vote. The CCF polled 34%; that is, more than any individual party. They elected nine members of parliament where they had three previously, and thus constitute the official opposition.

NOVA SCOTIA: The Conservative party was obliterated in the Nova Scotia Legislature. This is the first time since Confederation that not a single Conservative M.P. was elected. This, despite the fact that they presented a full slate of 30 candidates.

The C.C.F. now replaces the Conservatives as the official opposition. The C.C.F. popular vote doubled, from 10 per cent. to 20 per cent. This large vote is even more

Tigers Meet Wildcats Tonight in Crucial QRFU Tilt

College Football Matches Again in Limelight As Senior and Intermediate Squads Prepare To Meet Rival Teams in Important Events

Intermediate Title In Hands of Reds In Event of Win

Tonight at Molson stadium, the QRFU Tigers and Wildcats meet in what may prove to be the deciding game of the season. So far Tigers have had command of league play but with the loss of some of their most reliable talent and the acquisition by Verdun Grads of many Big Four Hornet stars, the race promises to become very close.

To date Tigers, with two wins and no losses, hold a decided edge over the winless Grads, but Stu Smith's Wildcats, having won one and lost one, are hot on their trail. Tonight they will have a chance, not only to avenge the 18-3 drubbing taken at their last meeting, but to move into a first place tie with Johnny Bennett's Redmen. However a Tiger win will clinch the title.

TIGERS WEAKENED

The loss of Bartlett and Bulloch was felt by Tigers in last Wednesday's game against the unprepared Verdun Grads when they were able to score only eight points although they dominated the play throughout. The scoring punch was missing. But of course the weather, too, was not conducive to wide-open play.

The Wildcats will be minus the injured Clarry Shannon tonight and there is a strong possibility that Futterer's leg may not be sufficiently healed to allow him to play. On the other hand, Dick Joseph will be a welcome addition. Dick is on loan from the I.R.F.U. team where he replaced the injured Brian Little in the middle slot.

Tomorrow night a composite Tiger-Wildcat team will meet Loyola seniors at a site to be announced later.

Basketball Team Begins Practices

Greenburg and Athans Augur Well For Davies Turnout Pleases Wagner

If the number of aspirants is any indication of team superiority McGill's basketball ten can be expected to go a long way in hoop circles this season.

Though fundamentals were the order of the day at the first practice on Monday, making it hard to determine what skill is available for this year's team, the fact that six boys from last year's senior team are back, suggests that a strong team may result. The following veterans of McGill court tactics will be donning the suction shoes again this year: Dave Greenberg, George Athans, Mari Goodwin, Manny Shacter, George Davidson and Sammy Roth. Able-handlers up from the intermediate ranks such as Nev Lefcoe, Eric Ingham, Syd Glazur add to the field from which coaches Van Wagner and Davies will have to choose.

The next practice is scheduled for today at 5 p.m. and though a little more experience is required than a passing interest in "Stretch" Murphy's recent short course, those with possible latent talent are urged to come out and see how they shape up.

Arts-Science Softball Squads Get Double Win

Architecture and Commerce Teams Take Drubbing

The Arts and Science softballers again proved their superiority last night when Arts and Science 2 defeated Commerce 1, 17-3, and Arts and Science 3 and 4 smeared Architecture 21 to 2, in a double bill played in the Gym.

In the first game, Arts 2 pulled 20 hits which accounted for 17 runs while the Accountants reached McKissock, the Artsmen's star pitcher for 8 safeties only, and 3 runs.

The nightcap provided many thrills, as Solomon of Arts and Science 3 and 4 allowed only two singles to the Architects as his team-mates batted 16 hits and were given 14 walks which amounted to 21 runs.

These two victories for the Artsmen kept them in leading positions in their respective sections.

The McGill Snooker Club will hold a tournament in the near future open to all, reports E. Solomon, publicity director for the Club.

A list has been posted in the snooker room of the McGill Union, to which all interested may affix their names, phone number and address. At press time, 19 competitors had already signed up.

All those who have not yet registered, and are interested, are asked to do so as soon as possible since the list will be taken down Saturday, Nov. 3. The tournament is expected to start next Monday Nov. 5, at which time the entrance fee of 50 cents will be payable.

What denizen of the deep can produce a pearl that is the equal of a perfect moment? Both the pearl and the moment are molded from their immediate environment; the pearl from its nacreous Mother, the moment from its elusive Father Time. Yet a pearl may be bought and sold, while a moment can never be bartered. A pearl may be possessed by one who knows not the value of its beauty, but a perfect moment lives only in the memory of one for whom it held the beauty of perfection.

I rode through the hills in the mist of dawn and drew rein upon the brink of a hidden valley. The sun's golden fingers parted the filmy curtain. For one moment of perfection, I was an unbridled joy. Within that vale of virginal beauty, my spirit bathed in the cool blue flame of a sunlit stream, and was renewed. In that instant, I was one with nimble deer, poised

Brian Little Back As Redmen Gear For IRFU Game

Doug Kerr's Redmen will have to face a determined tricolour squad from Kingston on Saturday afternoon. The Queenmen, chagrined by the drubbing they took at the hands of Varsity last week, will be all out for a win here.

In that game at Toronto starry Jack Parry was sadly missed and the Blues reversed the previous week's result at Kingston. However he may be off the injured list by Saturday and be a cause of worry to the Kerrmen.

Whether Parry plays or not, there are several other men in the lineup who will require close watching. One of these is Jack Milliken, the mainstay of the wartime squad. In the two Varsity games his kicking aided the Queen's cause substantially.

Then there will be the forward passing combination of Fuller to Knievasser which accounted for Queen's only major score last week. In addition Bob Campbell's 210 pounds at middle lends added weight to an already strong line.

BRIAN LITTLE BACK On our side of the ledger Brian Little's presence will be a great help at middle. In London last week Doug Kerr missed this stalwart who may have meant the difference between a win and a loss.

The Redmen have been practising some new plays this week. Observers say that they are fast and deceptive and that the timing has improved considerably.

Chandler Resigns As U.S. Senator

Baseball Commissioner's Task Claims All His Time May Return to Chamber

Washington, October 30. — Senator A. B. Chandler, Democrat, of Kentucky, said good bye to the Senate today to take on full time the job of baseball commissioner which club owners voted him last April 24.

But the Kentuckian told the colleagues with whom he has served since 1939 that he wasn't foreclosing the possibility that he may some day be one of them again. "At least for the present," he declared, "this is my last day in the Senate." He hastened to add, however, that he thought no man of forty-seven ought to say that he never intended to return to public office.

As for baseball, Senator Chandler hung up this slogan: "My highest obligation to baseball is to keep honest, clean and fair and that is what I propose to do."

Senator Chandler told reporters later he was mailing his resignation today to Governor Simon S. Willis of Kentucky. He declined to say what day it would become effective, but every one expected the vacancy to become official Thursday.

Governor Willis, a Republican, will appoint Senator Chandler's successor. Or the governor may wait until he himself has completed two full years in office, resign and be appointed to the Senate by the lieutenant governor. If Governor Willis resigns before Dec. 7, when the two years are up, a special election will be necessary to fill the governorship.

In any event, Senator Chandler seemed likely to be succeeded by a Republican, raising that party's strength in the Senate to forty, as compared with fifty-five Democrats and one Progressive.

Gymnasts Train For This Season's Meets

"Plans for an intercollegiate competition during the year have been completed," announced Coach Em Orlick of the Gymnastic Club. He said also that the team representing McGill would be chosen soon.

Last year's players who intend to compete for the team include: Reg Eyn, Peter Layne, Joe Sabath, Don Mathews, and Ross Swinden, who is this year's manager. Many veterans have turned out. Among these are John Simpson, Hugh Warburton, Jim Savage, Ted Futterer, John Foster, Jack King, Frank Barrit, Hack Yates and as well two outstanding hand balancers, Lyman Francis and Clark Merritt.

Tuesdays and Thursdays at 5:15 have been assigned for practice sessions and Saturdays will probably be used when the rugby season is over. Coach Em Orlick urges that anyone interested in gymnastics should attend the meetings in the Currie Gym.

Harold Martin Coaches McGill Squash Addicts

Practices Planned For Wednesdays From 5-6:30 P.M.

The squash club has been very fortunate in having Harold Martin offer his services as honorary coach. Prior to joining the army, Harold held both the Dominion and Provincial squash championships as well as being a perennial member of the Lapham Cup team, which represents Canada in International matches.

It is planned to have coaching regularly on Wednesday afternoon's from 5.00 till 6.30 p.m. This is a great opportunity for all squash players to pick up some good hints on what to do in a court. McGill's new coach won't be able to be present every week, but on the weeks that he isn't there, Pete Landry will be on hand to aid anyone who is just learning the game or wants to learn.

It is hoped that McGill will develop an active squash club this year and form a groundwork for later years. In the new extension to the gym the plans include six squash courts, so that adequate space will always be available.

On the agenda for future seasons are such things as Intercollegiate and out of town matches. This season, games are being arranged with local clubs. There are many positions open on the team and all participants will come in for some coaching whether you're good or poor.

Harold Martin will be up at the courts next Wednesday, while this evening Landry will be on hand at five. Further times will appear in The Daily.

Dawson Ranners Enter Team For Standard Trophy

Not content with taking second-place honors in the Inter-faculty track meet held at Molson Stadium on October 17, the Dawson College boys are entering a team in the Standard Road Race which will be held on Saturday, November 10.

The race, a five mile event formerly run off annually under the name of the Dunlop Road Race, has been revived this year by the Montreal Standard who have donated a trophy to be presented to the winning team.

Any team of six men may enter the race, and McGill will have two entries other than that of Dawson. To date, seven men have been working out on the campus at St. John's, jogging around the field which, according to Coach Em Orlick, is a distance of 9-10 miles. The majority of these seven men have had previous experience in distance running, and many of them took part in the Interfaculty meet.

Mixed Fencing Class To Meet Tomorrow

Manager P. R. Eakins has announced that mixed classes in fencing will begin tomorrow. These classes, which will be held regularly every Thursday evening at 7.00 p.m., and Saturday afternoons at 2.30 p.m., will take place in the B. W. & F. Room of the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium.

For those who are interested in the sport, instruction will be given in the use of the rapier, sabre, epee, and other weapons associated with the art. All these will be under the expert supervision of Coach George Tully, a former Dominion champion. All interested are urged by the manager to turn out and join in the fun.

Two Netmen Default In Tennis Tournament

Dufor and Spencer have been eliminated from the Intercollegiate tennis tournament due to pressure of studies at Dawson college.

This was announced by tennis manager Johnny Wythe late last night, when he declared the deadline for the Dale-McCormick match to be 3 o'clock this afternoon. Should this match fail to take place both players will be eliminated by default.

He's ready to Go to Work

He has knowledge and initiative!

The navy has many men like this veteran of convoy routes and landing operations: His duty done, he's coming ashore to put his training to civilian use.

He has learned a lot and learned it thoroughly; at sea there's no room for half-measures. For a ship to survive, each one of the crew must know his job and do it with authority. Whether he's an engine-room artificer, a coder, telegraphist, stoker, writer or gunner, he's an expert and well capable of applying his specialized knowledge in many civilian fields. To that end he's been taking special Vocational Training along those very lines.

To employers needing competent men accustomed to responsibility and sparked by initiative, he and his mates are sure bets.

STUDENT LABOR CLUB

A large number of students will be interested in Robert Haddow's talk on the problems of labor in the post war world, it is felt. Mr. Haddow is giving his talk in the Union Grill Room this evening at 8.15 under the auspices of the Student Labor Club.

Among the controversial topics which he will discuss is the current Ford strike. Free discussion among all those present will follow the address, and may result in the passing of resolutions on this subject.

All students are invited to this meeting, where they will have an opportunity to hear the opinion of a labor leader on a vital issue, and to meet other students interested in these questions.

ENGINEERING DEBATING SOCIETY

This Thursday at 1 p.m. there will be a noon-hour Round-table discussion in Room 37 of the Engineering building. The executive has chosen two members of the Society to speak on opposite sides of the question "Should the Federal Government manage Canadian universities?" Elections to the executive of the R.V.C. Historical Society have taken place as follows:

The club program for the year comprises several joint meetings with the Men's Historical Club where guest speakers will be heard, as well as meetings of the Society for group discussion of some pre-arranged historical topic. The next remarkable when one considers that the C.C.F. did not present candidates in 33 per cent. of the ridings; and the C.C.F. leader never left Cape Breton throughout the campaign.

BRITISH COLUMBIA:

In this province the C.C.F. increased its popular vote from 33 p.c. to 40 p.c. Despite this, the C.C.F. lost 7 seats, and gained 5. Undecided. The loss of these seats was due to two factors (1) The Conservatives and Liberals coalesced from fear of the C.C.F., running as a single Coalition party. (2) All the seats lost were in the southwest corner of B.C. where the Labor Progressives presented "splinter" candidates in the hope of assisting in the defeat of C.C.F. M.P.'s, this for their refusal to unite themselves with the Communists. In presenting the candidates the L.P.P. succeeded in achieving their purpose of dividing labor against itself. The four seats gained included the defeat of the Minister of Health and Mr. Puttallo, former premier of B.C.

In conclusion it is now certain that the groundwork has now been laid for success in Nova Scotia, Manitoba and B.C. In all these provinces the C.C.F. is the OFFICIAL OPPOSITION. In B.C. and Manitoba the C.C.F. is the party enjoying the largest popular support—Al Glassman, Chemical Eng. IV.

They laughed when I came out in my shorts. When I bent over — they split.

The Manitoaba

At the club Sahara: A woman has only two views of a secret — either it's too good to keep or it's not worth keeping... I was glad to go into the army to keep from going to the klunk, but after one week I realized my mistake... The honor system functioned very well at a college I attended — the profs had honor and the students had the system... Nowadays when you take an induction physical, they just feel your body; if it's warm, you're in.

At the Vars: He never washes his face in the morning; he likes to sleep through his first class.

... If there's a tie between father and son you can bet the son is wearing it... That's the worst army post in the country; even the roaches ate at the PX... Dancing is the one thing where a woman knows what a man is going to do before he does it.

Over there: I was flying dual with my instructor in basic one day when the voice of a scared cadet came over the intercom: "Bt 430 to tower, it's starting to rain out here. What shall I do?"

My instructor clicked on his mike and fervently implored, "Don't bail out; stick with the ship!"

What a pug ugly.

She had a face that only a brench general could kiss... I've led a very sheltered life up to the time I was twenty-two my mother wouldn't let me read the ladies' side of the laundry list.

Idle comment: In view of the fact that men on campus are the scarce commodity, the coeds should pay the two bits per date.

Any woman can keep a secret if she has at least one other woman to help her.

Quiggle: "Do you ever pause and reflect on other opportunities you have missed?"

Wiggle: "No. It would be just my luck to miss some more while I was reflecting."

They laughed when I came out in my shorts. When I bent over — they split.

The Manitoaba

will be given today at four o'clock in Redpath. Registration for the lecture is to be made at the Library desk.

Mike and Pat, returning, home one Sunday night, lost their way. "We're in a cemetery," said Pat. "I can feel a gravestone."

"Whose is it?" asked Mike. Pat struck a match. "I don't know," he said, "but he lived to be 175!"

He struck another match. "I can see now, it's some fellow named Miles from Dublin."
